Warren Garrott's Store and House
Knoxville
Private

C. 1849

Warren Garrott's Store is significant to Knoxville as a center of commercial activity as well as architecturally as one of the stone mid nineteenth century building which make up the town.

As early as 1849 the stone building, banked against the hill at the intersection of the Old Harper's Ferry Ridge Road and the Furnace Road, was operating as a dry goods store.

Because of the development of the C & O Canal which was completed between Point of Rocks and Dam no. 5 by 1839, it seems likely that the business could date as early as the first part of the nineteenth century. But definite mention is made of "Warren Garrott's Store Room or House" in an adjacent deed description dated 1849.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Warren Garrett Store is a banked two story gable roofed random stone residence which faces east from the west side of Route 180 in the center of Knoxville.

The principal facade is four bays wide. Two main entrance doors are located in the second and fourth bay on the first and second level. All doors have been replaced. The door located in the second bay on the first level is a horizontal paneled door with upper lights. Located in the fourth bay on the first level is a four panel door with two upper lights. Both transoms on the first level have been boarded shut. A five panel door with two upper lights is located in the second bay on the second level. A four panel door with three light transom and recessed paneled doorway is located in the fourth bay on the second level. A replaced one story frame porch extends across the front of the building.

Occupying the remaining bays on the first level are replaced 1/1 windows which are wider than the originals but have retained the solid stone lintels located directly over the window and door bays. The original double hung 6/6 windows occupy the remaining bays on the second level. The south gable of the building has an uneven fenestration pattern with original double hung 6/6 windows occupying each bay. Only one small four pane window is located at the top of the gable on the north side of the house.

A one story modern brick and frame addition has been added to the northwest side of the building drastically changing the character of the building at this corner.

The entire structure is constructed on a random banked foundation with quoins located in each corner of the building.

The house is covered by a replaced asphalt flank gable roof with exposed rafters and three brick chimneys. Two original interior brick chimneys rise from the north and south gable ends. One additional interior brick chimney has been added on the west gable end.

The interior of the building has been drastically altered with the addition of paneling, removal of woodwork, and installation of a dropped ceiling.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Warren Garrott's Store is significant to Knoxville as a center of commercial activity as well as architecturally as one of the stone mid nineteenth century buildings which make up the town.

As early as 1849 the stone building, banked against the hill at the intersection of the old Harper's Ferry Ridge Road and the Furnace Road, was operating as a dry goods store.

But definite mention is made of "Warren Garrott's Store Room or House" in an adjacent deed description dated 1849.¹

In 1852 Warren Garrott purchased the land on which the building now stands from Samuel B. Preston.² Garrott operated the store which according to the 1873 Titus Atlas was known as "Garrott & Miller, dealers in dry goods, groceries, boots, shoes, hats, caps, drugs, queensware, etc., "until he sold it to his grandson, Warron, son of Edward, who ran the hotel across the street in 1889."³ Garrott continued to operate the store until his death when it was finally sold out of the family in 1902. It remained being used as a store, post office, and beer parlor until the 1950's and now is a private residence.
